

How to use the Forum?

An online forum is an area where users can gain knowledge and ideas, establish expertise, and interact with others in one, open area. The Forum is where users can:

- ⇒ ask questions about indicators
- ⇒ ask for advice with downscaling techniques from service providers
- ⇒ query if desired analysis techniques are appropriate
- ⇒ share tips about communicating complex climate information
- ⇒ request further tutorials and ask questions about using the data

Register

Registration is needed for management of the forum, to avoid spam and unwanted posts. To register, click 'register'. Fill in your name and email address, and follow the prompts to set your password. Once you have registered, you can then 'Log in'. To log in, click 'Log in'. Fill in your details, and log in. You must be logged in to post, or ask a question.

To ask a question

Below the list of topics you will find a box. Give your question a title and write your content in the main text box (can add links or images here using the buttons below the title box). You can also add tags (like key words), and choose the status of your question (open so others can answer!). There is a check box which (if checked) will send you a notification email when someone replies to your topic. Then click 'submit' to post your question!
